Crew Anxiously Awaits Journey

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — The Apollo 11 astronauts spent the day before their trip to the moon reviewing the flight plan as servicing of their spaceship continued flawlessly and ahead of schedule for Wednesday's launch.

"We are happy to be ready to fly," said Neil A. Armstrong, the spaceship commander. At dawn Wednesday, 2½ hours before their scheduled 9:32 a.m. EDT liftoff, Armstrong, Edwin E. Aldrin Jr. and Michael Collins crawl into their capsule to begin man's most ambitious exploration.

The weather outlook was good.

"The three of us have no fear of launching out on this expedition," said Armstrong, set to become earth's first messenger on the moon. "I'm sure that American ingenuity and American craftsmanship have given us the best equipment that can be made available. We are happy to be ready to fly."

Janet Armstrong, the astronaut's wife, arrived during the night to be at the Cape when Apollo 11 vaults into the heavens. The other wives stayed home in Houston, Tex.

"I plan to sleep, lie in the sun and read the flight plan—again," said Collins of their pre-launch day with emphasis on the last word as the three astronauts appeared at a televised news conference Monday night.

Aldrin is scheduled to follow Armstrong down the steps of their lunar lander early next Monday. Collins remains in orbit overhead in the command ship, awaiting their return.

The astronauts, in sports clothes, were relaxed as they answered questions.

Not far away, bathed in floodlights like the pampered star it is, stood the 363-foot tall Saturn 5 rocket that will propel them onto the journey dreamed of perhaps since man first walked the earth.

Vice President Spiro T. Agnew and former President Lyndon B. Johnson were to be among the million persons expected at this moonport to see the launching.

In the lunar module, which is nested beneath the command and service modules, is a disc the size of a half dollar inscribed with messages of con-

Rev. Gray Dies After A Seizure

The Rev. Cleo C. Gray

The Rev. Cleo C. Gray, 57, pastor of the East Broadway Christian Church since 1960, and was well known throughout the mid-Missouri area. Prior to coming to Sedalia he was pastor at the Leeton Christian Church and the Oak Hill Christian Church.

Construction, now in process, of the new Parkway Christian Church on East 16th Street by the Broadway church congregation was directed by Mr. Gray. One member of his congregation said the new church was needed due to the growth in membership that followed Mr. Gray's arrival.

Mr. Gray had been pastor of the East Broadway Christian Church since 1960, and was well known throughout the mid-Missouri area. Prior to coming to Sedalia he was pastor at the Leeton Christian Church and the Oak Hill Christian Church.

He was born at Calhoun, Oct. 6, 1911, son of the late Fred and Ida McClain Gray. He received his elementary education in the Henry County schools and was graduated from Shawnee Mound High School in 1930. He attended the Moberly Ministerial College for two years.

He married Ruby E. Miller, Feb. 25, 1934, in Henry County. They were the parents of three children.

Say Death By Hanging A Suicide

Police have ruled the death of Wallace Frank Elliott, 35, a suicide after his body was found hanging by a clothesline rope in the basement of his home, 707 West Tenth, about 11:30 a.m. Tuesday.

The body was found by Elliott's wife, Jane. She told police she woke up and believed her husband had gone to work. She noticed the family car had not been moved and started looking for Elliott around the house, finally locating the body in the basement.

The Elliotts have no children, according to Detective-Sergeant Perry Franklin, who led the investigation.

Elliott had been employed in the finishing department of the Pittsburgh-Corning plant here. He was last reported leaving the plant at the end of the midnight to 8 a.m. shift Monday. He had been employed at the plant since 1955.

The body was taken to the Ewing Funeral Home.

Announce Building Plan At State Fair College

By HOMER HALL
Democrat-Capitol Staff Writer

A 5-million-dollar building program for State Fair Community College to construct a permanent campus was announced Tuesday by Fred Davis, president of the college.

The proposed program calls for construction of seven permanent buildings on the campus, three parking lots and other facilities. All buildings will be brick with a contemporary design.

"We hope to have a bond election sometime in early October," Davis said "to help finance the construction." A definite date has not been set for the election because it is not known for certain how much will have to be financed by the junior college district. Part of the funds for construction will come from state and federal sources.

"We estimate 3 to 4 million dollars will have to be provided through bonds," Davis said. It will take a two-thirds majority to pass.

A tax increase will be necessary, Davis stated. "I hope we can hold the increase to 30 to 35 cents," Davis said. "We will cut down as much as possible to lower the cost to the taxpayer." The present tax levy for the junior college district is 40 cents per each $100 property valuation.

Sammons and Buller, local architects, have prepared the master plans for the permanent campus. The plans call for 175,000 square feet of floor space to accommodate approximately 1,200 students.

The buildings will be constructed on 90 acres of the 130-acre site. The southwest corner will be developed at a later date, Davis said, to enable the college to accommodate an eventual 2,000 students.

The main entrance to the permanent campus will be off 16th Street. The major academic buildings will be constructed in the center of the campus with the vocational-technical building to the west and the physical education plant on the east.

The plans call for an auditorium to seat 650 with facilities for music, art, drama, and speech classes.

There will be a main administration building, and a student center with dining facilities. Dining terraces and reading terraces will be built around an existing lake which will be landscaped.

Other buildings include a library, with an adult education center; and academic center with classrooms, laboratories, and a lecture hall to seat 150; a vocational-technical facility which will be funded in half by state-federal funds, and a physical education plant with

Declare Election Results

The City Council canvassed the votes and officially declared the results of the Permaneer bond election held last Tuesday in a special meeting at City Hall Monday night.

The official tabulation of votes was as follows by wards: First Ward, 733 for, 40 against; Second Ward, 314 for, 23 against; Third Ward, 515 for, 56 against; Fourth Ward, 589 for, 40 against; Absentees, 19 for and 10 against; total 2,170 for and 169 against.

Final figures showed a vote of 93 per cent in favor of the $1,200,000 industrial general obligation bond issue.

Following the passage of an ordinance declaring the results of the election, Bill Hall, industrial development director, called for bids for the construction of the Permaneer building.

The bids are to be in the city clerk's office on or before July 28. Plans and specifications for the building are available at Hall's office.

Hall said Permaneer would use its money to begin site preparations immediately. He said the new industry is aiming to begin operations in the plant by next January.

Another special meeting of the council will be held the night of July 28 to open the bids.

In the pre-council meeting Monday night the councilmen went over the proposed budget for the city for the coming year. The proposed budget will be placed before the council for approval at the regular meeting next Monday night.

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Unless "meaningful tax reform" is considered at the same time, Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton said today, Democratic senators will not consider extending the surtax as requested by Nixon.

JOURELL BANK, England (AP) — Officials believe that the Soviet moonship, Luna 15, because it is travelling slowly, may have a special purpose. It will take 3½ days longer than usual for the ship to reach the moon, they say.

SAIGON (AP) — South Vietnamese vice-president Nguyen Cao Ky said today the United States erred in delaying the strengthening of his country's armed forces and that otherwise most U.S. troops could have been withdrawn this year.

Latin American Nations Involved in New Battle

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras (AP) — A new undeclared war raged in Central America today between Honduras and El Salvador, with each accusing the other of aggression. The Organization of American States ordered a peace team down from Washington.

Honduran authorities charged that Salvadorean ground forces invaded Honduras Monday at two points, and that Salvadorean planes made widespread attacks. Unconfirmed reports said seven cities were bombed.

A dispatch from Guatemala, which borders both countries said Salvadorean officials reported some 1,000 Honduran troops had crossed the border into El Salvador. Sources in Tegucigalpa said the Honduran air force's World War II Corsairs also crossed the frontier and ran into heavy anti-aircraft fire.

President Fidel Sanchez Hernandez of El Salvador held a three-hour emergency meeting with his cabinet, then announced he had ordered his army "to exercise the right of legitimate defense."

A government statement, broadcast from San Salvador, said the Salvadorean forces had been ordered into action after "continuous attacks by Honduran troops on the Salvadorean frontier, violation of air space and the knowledge that Honduran troops and air force personnel had mobilized in Santa Rosa de Lima for a large-scale attack."

Two Honduran towns reportedly suffered a "high" number of casualties from the Salvadorean air attacks. They were Ocotepeque, a town of about 5,000 and Santa de Copan, with 9,500 residents.

The Honduran government said Salvadorean ground troops invaded the country at Amatlillo from the south and Poy from the west. The government said Salvadorean planes dropped bombs on Honduran army and air force installations near the international airport in Tegucigalpa.

In Washington, Jorge Fidel Duron, Honduran representative to the Organization of American States, told a special OAS meeting that Salvadorean troops had penetrated 40 miles inside Honduras. He said some of the troops used the Pan American Highway.

The OAS ordered a peace team into the two countries at once. The team was expected in the area tonight.

The Salvadorean representative to the OAS, Julio A. Rivera, told the OAS council that the Honduran reports of Salvadorean invasion were only a "curtain of smoke" to hide "genocide" against some 15,000 Salva-

'Heat Storm' Hits Power Line Units

The Sedalia area has been repeatedly pounded by thunderstorms in the past month and now is suffering from a "heat storm," which is causing some pesky inconveniences.

Both thunderstorms and heat storms are apt to result in the partial or complete loss of electrical power in some locations, according to William O. Hiatt of the Missouri Public Service Co. Thunderstorms result in abrupt and complete loss at certain points, while the heat storm loss is more gradual and in most instances not a total loss.

Cause of the heat storm problems, according to Hiatt, is a build-up of heat in transformers. For instance, last Friday was a hot day, and during the day transformers absorbed a considerable amount of heat. During the night, which was also hot, the transformers did not have a chance to cool off before heavy load demands resumed Saturday.

The result of this heat wave has been at least six hot transformers that have had to be changed to prevent a total loss of electrical power to customers. Sunday power losses were reported from several areas, and six more transformers were changed. One actually got so hot the

Says US Has Made Progress for Peace

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird said today he believes "we've certainly turned the corner" toward peace in Vietnam—but added that U.S. forces are still under orders to maintain maximum battlefield pressure on the Communists.

Laird told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee that this strategy is among the matters to be reviewed by Gen. Earle G. Wheeler, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, during an inspection mission to the war zone.

Laird said Wheeler, who left for Vietnam today, will "assess the current military situation" including the current battlefield lull.

Gore and other critics of U.S. policy have suggested that U.S. forces ease their pressure on Communist troops in response to the lull in combat activity.

Laird said there has been a reduction in the level of hostilities for the past 11 or 12 days although the enemy has waged mortar attacks upon troop concentrations and population centers.

"We will have a lower casualty figure for this last week than we've had at any time this year," he said. "I do think that this is significant."

"I fervently hope . . . that the day will come when peace can be restored in Vietnam," Laird said. "I think we've certainly turned the corner."

He said the effort to turn over to Vietnamese forces an increasing share of the combat load is moving forward while U.S. forces are being reduced instead of increased.

Debate Value of Space Program

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — As America prepares to land two astronauts on the moon after a decade of space flight, many persons ask: What is the value of the space program? How has this nation benefited? Where is it leading?

These and other questions are asked in the following interview with Dr. George E. Mueller, who for six years has been the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's associate administrator for manned space flight.

Q. What, in general, do you think a successful moon landing will do for the United States?

A. The moon landing will be the result of focusing the energies and creative talents of many people. Perhaps the most important single thing the establishment of the goal of a manned lunar landing really did for the nation was to give it a sense of pride and sense of accomplishment at a time when there were not many things which provided that sense of achievement.

I think the next generation not only is going to accept but expect the continuation of space exploration as part of this nation and part of the world. I can think of no better way of draining off the creative energies of the world. I would much rather have space exploration serve as a challenge and as a competitive goal between nations than any other kind of conflict.

Q. How do you think the lunar landing specifically is contributing?

A. I do not think that anybody who saw the picture, through the eyes of the Apollo 8 and 10 astronauts, of how small the world is in this vast ocean of space can ever again feel quite the same way about the purpose of small conflicts on the earth's surface itself, but rather that we are together on a very small planet and we had best find ways of working together.

Q. There are many who say that the $24 billion we have spent on the man-in-space program could better have been spent solving problems on earth. How do you answer these critics?

A. I know of no more effective way of spending $24 billion in advancing the basic productivity and basic advances in technology that are essential for creating the national wealth that will in turn make possible these kinds of programs in cancer cure and elsewhere. Our basic economy depends on the creation of new technology and in turn new science to form the basis for that technology. Without it, we will lose our competitive position among the nations.

President Johnson pointed out in his last State of the Union message that under his direction the amount of money spent on welfare in this nation had gone from $30 billion a year to $69 billion a year in the last four years. In the same period, the space agency budget has dropped from $5.9 billion to $3.9 billion.

I think that beyond a doubt the money that was spent on space would not make a significant difference in welfare, and yet it will make in the years ahead a significant difference in the productivity of the nation. One of the disturbing things is that the over-all research and development expenditures in science and technology have been decreasing over the past four years.

Q. Has education been greatly influenced by the space program?

A. After Sputnik, there was a great wave of awareness that the system of education we had built was not necessarily going to succeed, and you can see the effect of that in the school system we have today. The science course, the mathematical course and even the liberal arts courses in our high schools and in our elementary schools are far more advanced.

As a matter of fact, our present college problems are partially traceable to the fact that the colleges failed to respond promptly and adequately to the challenge represented by a set of high school graduates over the past five or six years whose educational background was superior to that of many college graduates of only 10 years ago.

Q. What has the space program meant to the nation's industry?

A. In a very real sense, we have trained some 300,000 people in a whole new way of doing business. For the first time we have been able to build equipment of immense complexity that really works when it is put together. Right now there are about 150,000 people trained in the space program who are working elsewhere in industry.

I think some of the greatest contributions of the space program are the approaches that we have developed toward achieving reliability through design and design reviews, through testing and adequate development of test procedures.

It is that rigor of looking at things that will become a part of our industrial system that will lead to better products.

Assess Damage At Prison

LANSING, Kan. (AP)—Kansas prison officials were trying to make an assessment today of damage caused Monday night in the penitentiary's second major disturbance in a month.

About 300 inmates in "B" cellblock were subdued by tear gas after they demanded a longer period in the recreation yard and refused to return to their cells, a prison spokesman said.

Riotous prisoners in "C" cellblock caused an estimated $250,000 damage June 18. They were incensed over a midnight shutdown search of their cells.

James E. Banker, prison information director, said the 382 "B" cellblock inmates were in the recreation yard from 5 p.m. to 6:30 p.m., then were marched back into the building. He said they demanded more time in the yard, and refused to enter their cells.

R.N. Woodson, penal system director, Warden Sherman H. Crouse and their assistants went to the cellblock and urged the prisoners to obey the order. The men refused.

Guards released tear gas at 7 p.m., but the prisoners began smashing windows, locks and furniture while yelling and cursing.

Banker said 15 highway patrolmen were brought in and they fired more gas. At 7:30, he said, the prisoners asked that inmates who were not taking part in the uprising be allowed to leave the building.

About 80 men were then transferred to "C" cellblock, and the remaining 300 soon calmed down, Banker said.

"We don't know how much damage was done," Banker said, "but because of the gas it probably won't be as bad as last month."

Trains Sideswipe, Killing One Man

EMPORIA, Kan. (AP)—A Santa Fe freight train sideswiped a work train Monday, killing one man and injuring two others.

The accident occurred at the railroad's crossing over the Neosho River near Neosho Rapids. The work gang was using a pile driver to repair the tracks.

Lester Hutchinson, 56, Kansas City, Kan., was killed. Admitted to an Emporia hospital were James R. Garrett and G. M. Ketner, also of Kansas City.

Three diesel units and 16 cars of the freight train derailed. The engine of the work train was knocked into the river and the pile driver caught fire. Emporia firemen put out the blaze.

An ambulance got stuck in a field. Undersheriff Frank Coburn and two men in a pickup truck suffered minor injuries in a head-on crash of their vehicles as Coburn was going to the wreck.

Part of the freight train blocked Kansas 130.

FIRST AID TO THE SUMMER HEAT VICTIM

sunstroke, heat exhaustion, and heat cramps.

Sunstroke results from direct exposure to the sun's rays, while heat stroke results from excessive indoor heat. In both conditions the symptoms are the same — dizziness and a pain in the head, flushed face, and dryness of skin and mouth, rapid and full pulse and a high temperature.

First aid care for these cases is to transfer them to cool shade, if possible. Remove clothing and reduce temperature by applying cold wet cloths or an ice bag to the head, and by wrapping the body in a sheet and pouring ing on cold water; or by giving a cool bath lasting 15 to 20 minutes, with a brisk rubbing of the trunk and limbs to improve circulation. Do not give stimulants of any kind. The patient should be kept lying on his back with head and shoulders slightly elevated.

Heat exhaustion (prostration) is also due to excessive heat, outdoors or indoors. In this ailment the symptoms are almost the opposite of those of sunstroke or heat stroke. Heat prostration usually begins with dizziness and often with nausea and vomiting.

To give first aid treatment in cases of heat prostration remove the patient to a place with cool, circulating air. Keep him lying down with head level or low. Give stimulants and apply heat. Give salt for there is usually a salt deficiency in this condition.

But if you should have to go into the hospital, your financial plans could go flying out the window.

That's why it's not too bad an idea to have one of our cards on top of all those others.

When you flash your Blue Cross and Blue Shield card at the hospital admitting desk, you won't have to bother with a credit check, or making a deposit. And, when it's time to leave, you won't have to bother with claim forms. Member hospitals and doctors are paid directly by Blue Cross and Blue Shield for all basic benefits.

And at Blue Cross and Blue Shield we put back in about 92 cents worth of benefits out of every dollar.

America Goes With Apollo II

NEW YORK (AP)—From countdown to splashdown, television's cameras will accompany the Apollo 11 astronauts to the surface of the moon and back.

Coverage plans of the historic flight are reaching historic proportions. During the critical phases of the moon landing the three networks will be on the air continuously for at least 30 hours.

Two hour-long previews of the flight will be offered tonight. NBC's special is at 7:30-8:30 p.m. and CBS's at 10-11 p.m. All times are Eastern Daylight.

Coverage of the liftoff, set for 9:32 a.m. Wednesday, begins in the early morning. NBC signs on at 6 a.m. with a special edition of the "Today" show. ABC begins at 7 and CBS at 8 a.m.

Regular progress reports will be aired throughout the flight by the television and radio networks.

The Apollo is to send back the first of at least seven live transmissions for 15 minutes at 7:32 p.m. Thursday. All of the transmissions will be in color except for those from the lunar module on the moon.

On Sunday, as the lunar module Eagle prepares to separate from the command module Columbia the networks will begin approximately 30 hours of continuous coverage. ABC comes on at 12 noon for 30 hours of coverage and CBS and NBC at 11 a.m. for 31 hours.

The extended coverage, which ends at 6 p.m. Monday, will take the mission through the descent of the Eagle, the landing, the walk on the moon, liftoff from the lunar surface and docking with the Columbia.

The lunar module is scheduled to touch down on the moon at 4:23 p.m. Sunday, but Astronaut

Neil A. Armstrong will not leave the craft and set foot on the moon until 2:12 a.m. the next morning.

He is to be joined by astronaut Edwin E. "Buzz" Aldrin Jr. for a 2-hour and 40-minute exploration of the area around the capsule. Astronaut Michael Collins will remain aboard the orbiting Columbia.

When Armstrong steps out of the module, an automatic black and white television camera in the descent stage will be activated to transmit pictures of the first footsteps on the moon.

A special Trendex survey commissioned by ABC estimates that nearly 50 per cent of the U.S. viewers will stay up for the moon walk. In other parts of the world it will be daylight and hundreds of millions of people in Europe, Africa and Asia are expected to witness the event by satellite television.

Armstrong is scheduled to take the camera out of the descent stage and set it on a tripod 25 feet from the lunar module for a constant view of the astronauts working on the moon.

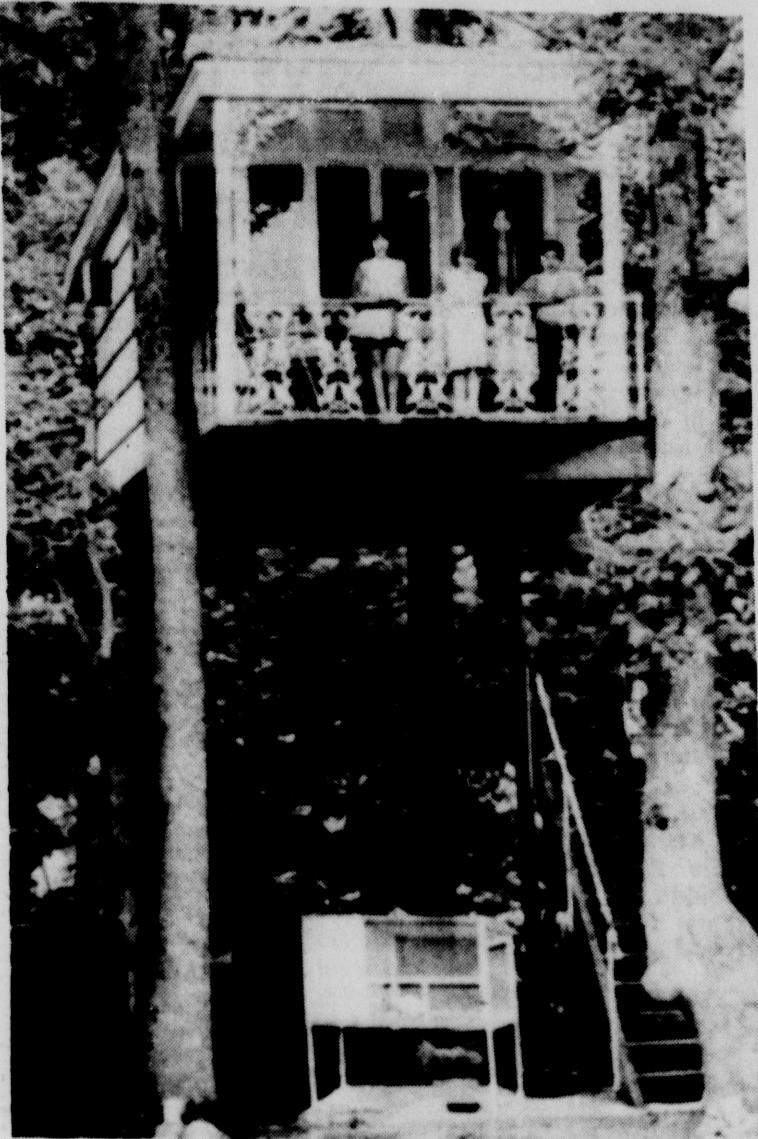

Obviously, during the period of extended coverage Sunday and Monday there will be long hours between activities. So the networks are lining up all kinds of attractions, from scientific reproductions of the moon's surface to science fiction to moonlight and romance.

Here is a sample of some of the plans:

On CBS, former President Lyndon B. Johnson will discuss his role in the space program, and Orson Welles will discuss the relevance of science fiction.

Duke Ellington is composing a piece of original music on the moon landing for ABC. The network also is setting up a special telephone system so that viewers around the nation can question newsmen about the moon mission.

Restraining Order Denied In Film Case

TOPEKA (AP)—U.S. District Judge George Templar denied a temporary restraining order Monday against Wyandotte County Atty. Francis J. Menghini sought by a Kansas City, Kan., drive-in theater in the seizure of five films.

Hearings have been set in state court Thursday on actions filed by Menghini under a Kansas law to seize the films considered obscene.

Lakeside Drive-in Theater Inc. asked the judge to temporarily restrain Menghini from "continued and multiple harassment."

Judge Templar said his court had not been asked to determine whether the films in question are obscene and would not undertake to do so.

He said the issue is not whether state law permits suppression of freedom of expression but "whether procedure followed by a prosecutor to suppress the exhibition of what is portrayal of filth, prepared and distributed 'for dirt's sake and dirt for money's sake,' constitutes denial of due process."

In addition, the theater has an action pending before U.S. Dist. Judge Arthur J. Stanley Jr. in Kansas City, Kan., in which a three-judge court has been impaneled to consider the constitutionality of the Kansas statute involved.

Menghini has obtained court orders to seize pictures entitled, "The Ramrod," "Eat, Drink and Make Merrie," "The Starlet," and "Lila."

Key to the City Concept Abandoned

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP)—The traditional key to the city will not longer be given to Charlotte's distinguished visitors.

Instead, they will get letter openers bearing the city's seal.

Chamber of Commerce officials say the keys are often tossed away in desks and forgotten. They believe that a functional, practical letter opener will be more effective in publicizing Charlotte.

Also attending was Sam Leak, Knob Noster, a member of the Warrensburg DeMolay Chapter.

Darrold Saul and Everett Smith were among ten delegates interviewed by the Kansas City Times on the subject of student dissent and their remarks and pictures appeared in that paper. George Smith was a member of the Conference Band.

doreans who have moved into neighboring Honduras.

Honduras and El Salvador have been at odds for years, mainly over border territory, but the most serious recent flareup occurred last month over the three-game series to determine which country's soccer team would participate in the World Cup matches.

There were fights between Hondurans and El Salvadorans, both on and off the field during the first two games, after the second game Honduras broke off diplomatic relations with El Salvador.

World Cup officials then ordered the deciding game played on a neutral field in Mexico City. El Salvador won the final game, 3-2, on June 27.

Tension between the two countries continued to mount. Honduras said one of its commercial airliners and a customs house were fired on from El Salvador July 3. El Salvador claimed that the plane bombed a border post and touched off a firefight between the two countries' ground forces.

A commitment has been made with the area high schools, Davis said, to have the vocational-technical building constructed by 1971 so that high school students may be bussed to the college on a half-day basis to participate in vocational-technical training.

"Construction of this building will be our first priority," Davis said.

Push the Issue

A steering committee consisting of members from key organizations in the community will be formed, according to Bill Hopkins, board of trustees president, to inform the public of the proposed facilities. "A model of the campus will be displayed at banks and other businesses," he said.

This is the first bond issue for the junior college. The temporary buildings were financed out of current revenues and will be paid for in two more years. The bonding capacity of the district is approximately $9 million.

"The fact we established our own buildings accounts for our rapid growth," Hopkins said. "If we had been meeting in community buildings late afternoons and nights only our enrollment would be much smaller," he added.

"From the standpoint of economic impact this school is unlimited. We train employees of new industries before they start operation," Hopkins said. "I feel the college had something to do with Permaneeer locating here."

If the bond issue passes, contracts will probably be let in January with all construction hopefully completed by September, 1971.

gymnasium and activity rooms. Present facilities will continue to be used but it has not yet been determined for what purpose.

"We haven't spent a dime so far on anything we can't use in the future," Davis said. "It's possible we may use our present facilities for dormitories or storage space."

Four reasons were given by Davis for calling for a bond issue and construction at the present time.

"Construction costs are going up 1 to 1 1/2 percent each month, the prime interest rate has been rising, and there is a move in Congress to remove the tax break on municipal bonds," Davis said. "This is why we need to move at this time for permanent construction so that we can hold costs down as much as possible. These same projected facilities could cost us 50 to 75 percent more five years from now," he added.

Need More Room

In addition, Davis said, the school is bursting at the seams at the present time. It's going to be necessary to divide some classrooms this fall to accommodate the expected enrollment, Davis said.

"In order for us to do the job we set out to do, we need the additional space," Davis said. "If we are to be a comprehensive community college we must add these new facilities to fit the needs of the community. A comprehensive community college is the most important role we play today. We are now serving people from 18-70, and if we get our new vocational-technical school this will mean we will have students as young as 15."

A commitment has been made with the area high schools, Davis said, to have the vocational-technical building constructed by 1971 so that high school students may be bussed to the college on a half-day basis to participate in vocational-technical training.

"Construction of this building will be our first priority," Davis said.

Drive-In Explained To Rotary

Like most businesses, a drive-in restaurant operates best when there are many customers to be served, because all employees are at their proper stations functioning in an assembly line fashion to handle the work, Gaylan Cope, operator of Colie's Drive-In, told fellow members of the Rotary Club when he gave a classification talk before the group on Monday noon at Hotel Bothwell.

He related several humorous incidents. One was the time when everyone was particularly busy, and a voice came over the speaker system with, "Hey, in there, there's no hamburger in my hamburger," Cope said he investigated personally and, sure enough, in the assembly line make up of food preparation, everything was put between the two bun halves but the hamburger.

Another time he had stationed himself near the covered garbage cans which set back some little distance from the drive-in to see who was opening the cans and strewing the contents over a wide area. It was nighttime and he was all set to give a lecture to the culprits. He didn't have to wait long for soon here came a grown raccoon, and it was joined by other raccoons, both large and small, until there were 18 of them. He watched as they lifted the lids from the cans, and started scattering the contents around in their nightly research for food morsels.

Cope pointed out that in a drive-in restaurant business the operator must keep constant control of his cost for labor which must be about 25 percent, and for food product which should be maintained around 38 percent in order to have a financially successful operation.

He was introduced by Lawrence Brown, July program chairman. Fred Davis gave the invocation and Jim Edwards led in group singing.

Dr. Charles Monsees invited Rotarians to participate in the 4-H Livestock Sale to be held at the Fairgrounds on July 22, by purchasing a whole beef carcass or a side of beef, or a whole hog. He offered to represent Rotarians in their purchases at the auction.

J. O. Latimer, president, presided over the meeting. Jerry Harlan, Rockport, Ill., was a guest of his father, A. J. Harlan.

Will Develop Disaster Plan For Families

Pettis County has been selected to receive assistance from the state and federal governments in the development of a family emergency plan, according to Russell Conn, director of the Sedalia-Pettis County Civil Defense Agency.

The program will be financed through a contract between the Department of Defense and the state Office of Disaster Planning and Operations.

Representatives from both organizations will meet at 7:30 p.m., July 22, in the court house to explain the program to any interested individual.

Once the plan is completed it will be mailed to each family in the county and will provide essential emergency information.

Miss Sedalia Is Commended For Showing

Although denied the top crown, Dixie Kemp, Miss Sedalia, finished as one of 10 finalists in the Miss Missouri contest Saturday night in Springfield.

"Being chosen one of the group of finalists from which Miss Missouri was picked is something Miss Kemp can be proud of," said Dave Gaspard, local Jaycee who worked in the Miss Sedalia pageant. Miss Kemp was sponsored by the Daughters of Isabella in the Miss Sedalia pageant.

Crowned Miss Missouri was Frances Elaine Biesemeyer of New Franklin. First runner-up was Sandra Kay Asselin of Branson. A total of 24 girls competed.

Miss Kemp, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Everett Kemp, 412 Dal-Whi-Mo Court, will attend Rockhurst College in Kansas City this fall.

Pick Up Men In Gas Theft

Two Sedalians are being held for Henry County authorities and another is facing a petit larceny charge in Sedalia following a gasoline theft at the McCown Salvage Co., yard at Highway 65 and Grand Avenue Monday night.

Ray Breslers, 117 South Grand, and Ralph E. Tolliver, 219 East Saline, were at first charged on city warrants. Later, an investigation by the Pettis County sheriff's office and the police department revealed the two were suspected in the theft of a lawn mower in Henry County, near Calhoun, last Saturday.

In connection with the lawn mower theft, the sheriff of Henry County had warrants charging the pair with stealing more than $50, and was to pick the two men up in Sedalia.

Jackie Cooper, 117 South Grand, was picked up in connection with the gas theft and charged with a petit larceny on a city warrant.

The location of the salvage yard, partly in and partly outside the city limits, brought in both the sheriff and the police.

Power

insulating oil boiled out of the container and the Fire Department had to be called.

Hiatt explained the loss of power is not due to the transmission of available power to Sedalia, but is due to the unexpected overload placed on the distribution system locally. This heavy load is caused by the installation of air conditioning systems, heavy use of fans and other cooling systems.

The MPSC representative said the firm has repeatedly asked all persons installing central air conditioning to so inform the firm so the necessary equipment can be installed to handle the load before hot weather sets in. He indicated few persons have informed the firm of their increased electrical needs.

For instance, Hiatt said, each transformer handles from four to as many as 12 homes. If all of these homes install even a window air conditioner, and do not inform MPSC of the installation, that area is in for trouble during the next "heat storm."

"There's plenty of power available," Hiatt said, "but we need to know of the additional needs in order to supply this power to specific areas."

Patients Need Activity, Friendship

By HOMER HALL
Democrat-Capital Staff Writer

What are the conditions in nursing homes in Pettis County? According to a report released earlier this year by a survey team from the University of Missouri headed by Dr. Thomas P. Weil, director of graduate studies in health service management, nursing homes in the county are poor. The survey was conducted for Bothwell Hospital to help them plan long-range programs.

Not Good Report
The report emphasized that care in the four Pettis County nursing homes visited by the survey team ranged from rather mediocre to poor.

Don Feeback, Bothwell Hospital administrator, stated that he did not entirely agree with the report. "There is always room for improvement," he said, "but for the most part patients in the rest homes are receiving good care."

Mrs. Dorothy May, nursing home caseworker for the county welfare office, agreed with Feeback. "We have good relations with the nursing homes," she said. "While conditions need improving, they're much better than they were a year ago."

Since there was disagreement concerning elements of the report, this reporter toured the six nursing homes in the county to see conditions first-hand. Rest Haven, Fairview, Community, Campbell's, Buena Vista, and the Sedalia nursing homes were visited.

Care is Rendered
On-the-spot observations indicate that patients are receiving generally good care. The homes are mostly clean but depressing. Most patients appear to be happy but lonely. A lack of organized activities is evident in all the nursing homes, although some are making definite efforts in this area.

Rest Haven has regularly scheduled "remotivation" classes which, according to the administrator, Mrs. Mary Filicetti, are designed to "help bring the patient back to reality."

Mrs. Loueva McKeenan is in charge of these classes, which are held four times each week. Different subjects are discussed, such as the pony express, Sedalia, and hay baling. "All the patients were extremely interested in Sedalia," Mrs. McKeenan said. Pictures are used to present a lesson on a certain topic and then patients are asked questions concerning the pictures. "This way they can take an active part in the class," Mrs. McKeenan said.

Give a Party
Rest Haven also has two sewing classes each week and a party once a month. Local music groups are brought in to perform at these parties.

Fairview's organized activities include bingo every Wednesday afternoon, a visiting librarian once a month, and organ playing on Monday and Friday for breakfast and dinner. Lloyd A. Taylor, administrator at Fairview, stated that starting in September the librarian would show a film on her monthly visits.

Television is available in all the homes for those patients who are able to walk to the recreation room. Some of the patients have their own television sets, but this is a rare exception.

Services of Worship
Regular worship services are available for patients, but varies from home to home. Fairview and Buena Vista offer services every Sunday afternoon, and Rest Haven has services twice a month.

Rest Haven has a small chapel for meditation, Fairview has moved its chapel into the dining room, and Buena Vista, although it has a separate chapel, holds its services in the women's recreation room. Speakers for these services are provided by the Sedalia-Pettis County Ministers Association.

Although efforts at providing organized activities have been made, all the nursing homes fall far short of what they could do.

Outdoor recreational activities are particularly lacking. "These people need to get outside," said Mrs. May.

Not Any Activity
Patients may walk outside but there is little else for them to do. Taylor stated that he would like to get a croquet set and a picnic table for his patients but gave no indication as to when this would be done.

Outside area is small at Campbell's and Community. Patients at Community may sit on the front steps, but they have nowhere else to go. Campbell's has a large front porch but patients are seldom seen there. Screening in this porch would help considerably. Buena Vista and Sedalia homes have large grounds but they are seldom used.

Buena Vista has the largest area but little attempt is made to see that patients are able to get outside in nice weather. A swing set in the yard is the only recreational equipment available. In fact this was the only piece of recreational equipment observed outside any of the homes.

Porch Needs Repair
Buena Vista also has a screened porch which is badly in need of repair in the women's section, and is only large enough for four patients. This should be enlarged as the women seemed to enjoy sitting there. There is no screened porch for the men, but there was a porch available with only one chair on it.

The chapel at Buena Vista needs to be utilized. A religious atmosphere cannot be created in the recreation room where services are held. In addition, it would help some of the patients to make the outside walk to the chapel once a week, according to Mrs. May.

Recreation rooms definitely lack facilities in the older nursing homes. Three of the homes had pianos and all had television sets but in three of the homes the rooms were so small that no organized recreational activities could be conducted.

Part of Bedroom
In Campbell's nursing home the recreation room is one corner of a large bedroom. Recreation rooms in the Sedalia and Community nursing homes are also small and unpleasant. Few people were in the recreation rooms in any of the nursing homes and those that were occupied themselves by watching television.

"These recreation rooms need to be used more. Patients need something to do outside their own rooms," Mrs. May said.

"Community organizations could do a lot of good for some of these patients," Mrs. May said. "They could organize activities to help these patients get involved in something. Too many of them have nothing to do but sit," she added.

"Volunteer visiting to patients could help," she said. "Many patients have no one speak to them all day long except a nurse when they bring a meal or provide medication."

Need to Talk

During the tour of the nursing homes when we stopped to talk to a patient, his face would brighten and he suddenly became willing to talk at length on any subject. It was almost impossible to get away from some of the patients. "These people need visitors. Keep in mind that many of them have no families," Mrs. May said.

Evidence that patients can improve if they are urged to be active was apparent at the Fairview home. Taylor stated that he takes one patient with him regularly to do shopping, and since this time the patients' shaving habits have improved, because he knows he'll be seen in public.

Mrs. McKeenan at Rest Haven also feels that the remotivation classes held there are a definite help to the patients. "It makes them feel like someone cares and that they are involved," she said.

May Water Flowers

Patients at many of the homes are allowed to do small tasks if they want to. Patients at Fairview, for example, are allowed to water flowers.

One administrator stated that it was impossible to make nursing home patients participate in recreation. However, it is apparent that the few recreational activities provided in the homes are enjoyed by many of the patients.

Fairview has modern rehabilitation equipment including a whirlpool, heat lamp and walking stairs, but they are seldom used. Little effort is being made to rehabilitate the patients. There is only one person on occupational therapy at the present time at Fairview, the only home with this equipment. Other homes need it.

Mrs. Glennifern Danforth, administrator at the Sedalia nursing home, said that "the Coke machine is the most popular place in the building because the people have a choice. They can choose what type of soda they want. We need more things where they can have a choice so that they feel as if they are doing something worthwhile," she said.

Offer a Choice

This is why organized activities are so badly needed, according to Mrs. May. Organized activities would give the elderly a choice of what to do. For the most part their choices now are either to stay in bed or watch television.

Nurses aides at all the homes apparently are effective in entertaining patients. "Many of them spend free time just talking to the patients to make the patient feel someone cares for them," said Mrs. Danforth.

Organized activities would not help some of the patients who are either mental cases or bedfast, but for others it would be a great help in rehabilitation procedures.

Lack of organized activities is not the only problem facing nursing homes today, but it may be the worst. Other problems facing the homes will be discussed in future articles.

Armadillo Drops In For His Free Meal

CHICAGO (AP) — A 16-inch armadillo dropped in for Sunday dinner—ripe bananas and earthworms—at the William Kenny home in southwest Chicago.

The bony animal turned up that morning on the lawn, far from its native habitat in the Southwest and Gulf Coast states.

The Kenny's captured the seven-pound armadillo in a lawn-mower grass catcher, then named their new pet "Schnozzo."

"We didn't know what it was when we first found it," Kenny said. "But we checked the encyclopedia and found it was harmless."

"Schnozzo" will go to a zoo or the anti-cruelty society if no one claims him in the next few days, Kenny said. He believes the animal escaped from someone coming back from a vacation or was accidentally shipped north with some produce.

Manners Start at Home

Modest manners in public may occur spontaneously but persons who express them more often than not react to the training they have had in the home. This is where respect and consideration for others becomes ingrained in the conscious and subconscious mind.

Good manners and gentle courtesies among friends and strangers are inspirational. They also lighten the tensions of the day between salespersons suffocating days as we have had in Central Missouri recently.

A study of the behavior of people in their daily contacts is as fascinating on Ohio avenue as it is on a vacation trip which provides observations of fellow travelers on the road and at meal and motel stops. The hurry and tenseness generated by hard driving does something to an otherwise normal person — something friends at home would not recognize.

There is the crowding to get to a table first, the flippancy and sharpness toward waitresses, messing up toilet rooms, cutting in and out of traffic, loud honking of the other fellow, whipping in ahead of other motorists trying to get to a motel office first just in case there may be only one vacancy left, blustering talk with the motel reservation clerk, complaining of services here, there and everywhere.

Bad manners of a few reflect on the many who are tolerant and mannerly. More emphasis in the home must be placed on manners if the human race is going to accommodate itself with living together in a growing nation whose population may reach 250 millions by 1975. Will there be room for bad public manners then?

It is not easy to get along with people when crowded elbow to elbow, but it is worth a thought or two in contemplation of what might happen among hordes of citizens whose public, and private, manners are bad.

Unless we have self respect and also respect for our fellow citizens we can come mighty close to aping the denizens of the jungle.

Traveling across country on vacation it appears there are a lot of apes already loose from their habitat. Repugnance to their actions should encourage the rest of us in an endeavor to improve our own public manners.

Great Teamwork Behind Apollo 11

By DREW PEARSON
DOWNEY, Calif. — Behind the miracle of the lunar voyage which will last eight days is another miracle which has been lasting eight years. It is the miracle of industrial and government teamwork which has produced the intricate machinery by which man will reach the moon.

A total of 17,000 companies supplied all the component parts, some of them minor, which are going into the launching at Cape Kennedy. Of these, 9,000 companies made substantial contributions and perhaps 20 developed highly important parts contributing to the launching and all that went before.

However, the most important work took place here in the Los Angeles suburbs where North American-Rockwell built the Apollo command module and all but one of the main rocket engines which will take it on its precarious trip to the moon and back.

This is a project which has been given more scrutiny, more care, than anything ever attempted by man. Illustrating that care, every piece of aluminum, titanium or other material which goes into the Apollo has been traced back through all its manufacturing stages to test its quality. The careful assembling of the parts which goes into the moon launch is a miracle of perfection.

To do this, North American has assembled a team of dedicated experts under its president, Lee Atwood, an old aeronautical engineer at Wright Field in Ohio; and under John R. Moore, William Berger and Dale Myers, who direct the aerospace division. They worked, in turn, with executives of NASA, whose first administrator, James Webb, was brought to Washington by ex-Gov. O. Max Gardner of North Carolina in the Roosevelt administration and went on to become an executive of Sperry-Rand before heading NASA. Webb has been succeeded by Dr. Thomas Paine, the present administrator. But in the background have been many others, including Dr. Werner von Braun, of whom more in a later column. Also in the background, though more or less forgotten, were LBJ and JFK.

—JFK's Goal Was Moon—
It was President Kennedy who determined in 1961 that the United States would reach the moon — period. And it was Lyndon B. Johnson who as chairman of the Senate Space Committee voted the money and pushed President Eisenhower, even

Thought for Today

For no other foundation can anyone lay than that which is laid, which is Jesus Christ. — I Cor. 3:11.

Most people are willing to take the Sermon on the Mount as a flag to sail under, but few will use it as a rudder by which to steer.—Oliver Wendell Holmes, American poet and essayist.

before Kennedy, to catch up with the Russians in space. Later, as vice president under Kennedy, Johnson was placed in charge of the moon space program.

Many others have contributed to this American miracle of government-industrial production, which, incidentally, illustrates what can be achieved when there is no back-seat driving from Congress, and no constant harping about the invasion of states' rights.

The industrial miracle-makers range from Boeing, manufacturer of the first stage of the Saturn rocket which will push Apollo into space; to Aerojet, builder of the critical engine which will return the Apollo to earth; to Grumman, which produced the lunar module; to Westinghouse, McDonnell Douglas, MIT, Minneapolis-Honeywell, Bell, Eagle-Picher, Bendix and Whirlpool.

Pratt-Whitney in Connecticut made the intricate machinery by which Apollo produces its own electricity. But unlike commercial plants which pollute the atmosphere, its byproduct is water which the astronauts drink. Northrop made the parachutes to brake Apollo 11 as it approaches the earth and help reduce its speed from 20,000 miles an hour to a safe landing and speed for the splashdown.

The parachutes are neatly tucked into the top of the Apollo, along with cartridges of dynamite which fire them into the air. These parachutes and flammable fluids, which are stowed in the ensemble at Cape Kennedy at the last minute, are the reason for the long advance countdown.

The company which puts the heat-resistant coating over Apollo is Avco. The Apollo was shipped to Boston where Avco applied a coating which will withstand a heat of 5,000 degrees as it re-enters the earth's atmosphere.

So good a job has been done in building the Apollos and protecting their surface that they can be used over again. I inspected Apollo 10 here at the North American-Rockwell plant. It was burned only a little on one side when the astronauts turned the capsule sideways in order to slow their descent.

—Testing Descent—

North American has constructed a small lake with a higher tower alongside in order to test the descent of all Apollos into the water. It's been found that the capsule can also come down on land, though at slightly more risk. Incidentally, the Russians, who bought their astronauts down on land at first, are now using water.

I went inside Apollo 10. It contains the most compact maze of switches and gadgets I have ever seen, completely confusing to the layman, which increased my respect for the astronauts who can operate them. The cramped quarters also increased my sympathy for the men who must live in that capsule for eight days.

North American has made sure that not one article, not one piece of material inside the Apollo 11, is flammable. Every object has been tested with a heat of 18,000 degrees applied by a blowtorch. Even the couches on which the astronauts recline are made of heat-resistant plastic.

North American has built 13 additional Apollos, five of them ready for future flights to the moon. They could be shipped to Cape Kennedy next week and ready to launch within a month.

They stand in the so-called "clean room," a glistening white room which no one is allowed to enter without wearing a white hat, white coveralls, and having his shoes put through a special cleaner. No one can enter an Apollo itself or even approach it without taking his shoes off or wearing white booties.

Dirt, especially human hair, is the chief enemy of the delicate machinery inside the capsule. Every capsule is vacuumed regularly, and the dirt — only a minuscule amount — is kept in plastic envelopes in showcases outside the "clean room."

Such is part of the modern miracle performed by industry and government which will make possible the lunar launch.

Soviet-U.S. Rivalry Seen as Inevitable

By BRUCE BIOSSAT
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA) — The approach of talks with the Soviet Union on arms limitation raises anew the question how far accommodation between Moscow and Washington can go at this turn in history.

There is, of course, a school of U.S. liberals which has argued for many years—with a changing cast of advocates and in varying contexts—that accommodation can be nearly complete if the United States will just stop annoying the Soviet Union.

For some at the opposite end of the spectrum, the Big Two are totally irreconcilable and the only conceivable outcome is the political or military triumph of one over the other.

A considerable body of politicians, diplomats and writers on international relations contends, however, that neither of these prospects is likely. In their view, some kind of limited accord is the best to be hoped for, but this could lead to a significant defusing of a rivalry always potentially explosive.

Underlying the outlook of this temperate "centrist" group is the notion that the postwar rivalry between the two superpowers has been inevitable all the way, even without the heavily accentuating factor of aggressive communism.

In the 19th century, the exiled Napoleon and later the celebrated French historian of America, Alexis de Tocqueville, both forecast that Russia and the United States would emerge one day as the world's two giants.

Russia then was an impoverished agricultural land guided by a shaky monarchy, with communism not even dimly foreseen. America was barely on the threshold of its spectacular industrial growth.

What they had impressively and exclusively in common were vastnesses of space and a huge potential of resources — attributes perceived by discerning observers as overwhelming in their political and military meaning. Together the two nations today occupy more than a fifth of the world's total land area.

It was the end of World War II that brought them at last to their special pre-eminence and into direct confrontation and rivalry. As French writer Raymond Aron points out, both countries thereafter had two faces—one turned toward the Atlantic and Europe, the other toward the Pacific and Asia.

"Once the Soviet Union and the United States assumed the leading roles on the international stage, they extended that stage to the limits of the planet."

Aron and other specialists would argue that their incredible strength uncontested seriously by any others, makes them inescapable competitors in every endeavor. Adds the French author:

"For two great powers in one system not to be hostile to one another, it would be necessary for them to reign together. History presents us with no example of such a miracle."

The outstanding fact about them, he says, is their "hostility of position," brought to a head the moment Japan and Germany collapsed.

Ideology has critically sharpened this hostility, and the technological and arms race has made the competition highly dangerous.

Yet the hopeful "centrists," while not buying the dreams of the liberals who imagine the hostility would end if we would just be nice to Brezhnev and Kosygin, think that any kind of moderating contacts—arms limitation, joint efforts to pacify a troubled area, cultural exchanges, trade — can take some of the peril out of the rivalry.

President Nixon is being chided in liberal circles for having chosen an arms-talk team branded mostly "hard-line." But it is not clear whether this reflects his own outlook, a bowing to conservative opinion in the nation, or the natural caution all U.S. presidents have exhibited toward a powerful rival which still has not signaled clearly that it is ready to abandon its long-trumpeted goal of wiping out the capitalist-democratic regimes of the free world.

Man has been chewing various gums and resins for enjoyment since ancient times. The Greeks chewed gum from the mastic tree, Maya Indians chewed chicle and Indians of New England introduced the colonists to chewing spruce tree resins. The World Almanac says. Spruce gum became the first commercial chewing gum when John Curtis marketed his "State of Maine Pure Spruce Gum" in 1848.

As bridge writers have pointed out since the play of the first dummy, the streets of London are filled with impoverished gentlemen who owe their plight to the failure to pull trumps. A somewhat different situation applies in the New York bread lines. Their members pulled trumps too soon.

South wins with dummy's ace of spades and is faced with a problem: Should he go right after trumps or try to discard a club on the third good spade? He has to lose three aces. If West holds the ace of clubs, South may lose two club tricks. He can guard against that by going right after a club discard. Which line should he adopt?

The basic mathematics are that spades will break 4-3 just over 62 per cent of the time while West will hold the club ace just 50 per cent of the time.

There are complications in other suits. For instance: If West holds all three missing aces (a 12½ per cent chance), South can go after trumps with no fear that a club will be led through his king. East can never gain the lead.

This brings the trump play up to a 62½ per cent chance. There also is a chance that if West holds the aces of hearts and clubs, he will continue spades or even play his ace of clubs after getting in with the ace of hearts. This also favors the immediate trump play.

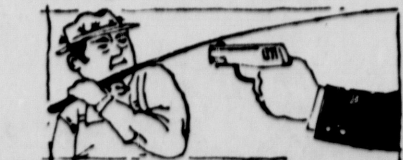

If you take a good look at all four hands, you will see the winning play is to try the spades right away and that is the play we recommend. The first reason is that if spades do break 5-2 and West holds the long spades, South will overruff. The second, although a very far-fetched reason, is that maybe East or West started with two spades and the singleton ace of hearts.

Shun the Recipes a la Gustatory

By BETTY CANARY

Along about this time of year women are frantically thumbing through recipe booklets in attempts to discover new, interesting, light and summery dishes for the dinner table. Usually, because her husband has said, "One more Tomato Delight and you're OUT." Sometimes because she started screaming hysterically over that last batch of deviled eggs.

Whatever the reason, a few guidelines, some rules of thumb, are in order. (An interesting note here is that a Thumb is about the only thing never recommended as a perfect ingredient for aspic molds.)

Remember that recipe hints are everywhere. Leave no stone unturned in your search for new ideas. While I have never seen a recipe offer on a stone, I wouldn't be surprised to find one there. I did get a most unusual one (I believe it combined chopped cucumbers and liver sausage) by sending off the top of a facial tissue box. (Actually what I got for that box top and $3.95 was a set of steak knives. I had to send off the end of the steak knife wrapper for the recipe.)

By trial and error you will probably come to the conclusion I have, and that is, those offers requiring mayonnaise jar labels, pickle jar lid inserts and arrows off puffed wheat boxes are the best bets. These people seem to know more about food than do the manufacturers of tissue, shoe polish and stove cleaner. (For the sake of fairness, the nylon stockings obtained with end flaps of butter boxes are of good quality so perhaps the rule isn't the same in reverse.)

It goes without saying that many interesting recipes are gleaned from magazines and newspaper food sections, so many that one dares not read without having a pair of sharp scissors handy.

With a bit of experience one learns that many recipes are to be used only as File Box Filler, and are printed mainly for those women who feel insecure because they only have 78 Surefire Hamburger Hits instead of the more common 102.

One grows more selective as the summers go by and the tendency is to hastily turn the page when faced with a recipe calling for hamburger topped with millet seed and anchovies. Also there is less time to look for new recipes, especially those suggesting salads made with peach-half faces, no matter how artistically designed with parsley hair, black olive eyes and pimento-strip mouths.

To aid you in your search, the following tips: Avoid clipping recipes headed "Culinary Magic With..." as these invariably include hot dogs and/or cold cuts. It's also best to pass by those promising "The Gourmet's Way With..." because most of these also use hot dogs and there isn't a gourmet alive who believes in steaming a frankfurter in grape juice or could face up to one wrapped in mashed sweet potatoes.

"Gustatory Delights" usually means something covered with mint sauce and shaved chocolate. "Sinfully Sweet" means with canned fruit cocktail.

"Shimmeringly Savory" — always aspic.

Emphasis on Art

By CYRENE DEAR

WASHINGTON, D.C. — J. Carter Brown, the new, young director of the National Gallery of Art, has great plans for the beautiful building on Constitution Avenue. After only a week in office he is already discussing the projects he will pursue in the next few years.

"Every painting in the gallery is deteriorating by virtue of the light falling on it. One of the discoveries we pioneered is that light not only affects drawings, texts and paper, but oil paint as well. One can retard this by reducing the radiation of the visible spectrum. We have developed a filter to keep out ultraviolet light and we are now working on infrared rays." Brown told a luncheon meeting of 250 at the Woman's National Democratic Club.

His next project, Brown said, will be to increase the purchase of what he calls 20th century old masters: works by Picasso, Matisse, Miro and other giants of Cubism and Surrealism whose work is poorly represented in the National Gallery. He also wants to improve vastly the Gallery's collection of drawings, which are becoming "what there is left to collect." He wants to house them in the ground floor exhibit rooms and open up an unused entrance on 7th Street n.w. to make them more accessible.

The National Gallery, given to the nation by the late Andrew Mellon, is one of the most popular places to visit. Thousands of children are brought there with their teachers to listen to explanations of the famous paintings. The building is so large that it becomes a frame for the pictures which hang there. Unlike the Louvre in Paris which is so crowded with paintings that even the famous "Mona Lisa," which is a small picture, is harder to appreciate because the whole wall is surrounded by other important paintings.

Funds have already been acquired through the Mellon family and friends for an adjoining building to house some of the art which now has to be stored. This will include small pieces of bronze and metal sculpture.

Director Brown intends to put more emphasis on modern art and contemporary exhibitions. He believes that Washington is rapidly becoming one of the great art centers of the world. It was the first to install the electronic lecture system, which is a great aid giving information about the paintings.

To be sure, the director said, we have a swarm of umbrella checkers who take a quick look at the Gallery, but more and more we have people who come to linger and spend time because they have learned to love and appreciate specific works.

"I had to sit through 'I Am Curious, Yellow' three times before I realized just how DISGUSTING it was!"

Ann Landers

Terrified by Her Suicide Thoughts

Dear Ann Landers: I've made some mistakes in my life but as I look back over the past 34 years I see many tragedies over which I had no control. Both my parents were drowned when I was 16. My brother whom I adored was burned to death in a fire. A sister I envied and disliked died in a car accident. To this day I feel as if I murdered her because I was driving.

You may not be able to help me, Ann, but perhaps just expressing my feelings in writing will make me feel better. I am haunted by the fear that I will commit suicide. There are times when I hate living and want to die, but I know suicide is the coward's way out. More important, I have three wonderful children who need a mother. Their father is away a great deal and I'm afraid he has no real interest in his family.

I am terrified that I will jump out of a window. Whenever I'm near a large open window I panic. I am so afraid of elevators, I'd rather walk up ten flights than go into one.

Can you give a few sentences of hope? What can I do to get over these hellish feelings? Gwendolyn

Dear Gwendolyn: I almost never recommend books but I'm going to make an exception because I've just read a book that could help save your life. It is called "The Prison Of My Mind," by Barbara Field Benziger. The publisher is Walker. If your bookstore doesn't have it, ask them to get it.

This book is a moving personal account of a courageous woman who conquered mental illness. Her honesty and openness will give encouragement and hope to every person who fears he is cracking up.

The best answer for one who is suicidal is a therapist in whom he has confidence. The author of "Prison Of My Mind" emphasizes this point. While Mrs. Benziger credits therapy with saving her life she makes it abundantly clear that not all psychiatrists are humane, kind and competent.

Dear Ann Landers: When parents who are far from rich give a married son and daughter-in-law $3,000 to help them through a financial crisis, are they entitled to get it back? Are the parents supposed to forget about it because they have more money than the kids?

Two years have passed since we gave them the money and not a word has been said about paying it back. Last night my husband brought up the subject when our son and his wife drove up in a new car. They called us mercenary, money-hungry and worse. There must be others with the same problem. Will you comment, please?—The Money Bush

Dear Money: What was the understanding when you handed over the $3,000? Did you say, "This is a loan, not a gift? If you didn't, you should have. A sure-fire combination for Big Trouble is relatives, money, and nothing on paper. Welcome to the club.

Sharks Chase Navy Frogmen from Sea

ABOARD USS HORNET (AP) — Frogmen from the aircraft carrier Hornet, practicing for the recovery of the Apollo 11 command module when it returns to earth from its historic moon mission, were forced from the waters of the Pacific Ocean by sharks.

The frogmen were attempting to attach a flotation collar to a mockup of the spaceship when the inquisitive sharks appeared Monday. The Navy swimmers climbed into a rubber liferaft until the sharks, apparently satisfied with their inspection of man's doings, departed.

'Free Thing' Draws Crowd to the Park

FORT SMITH, Ark. (AP) — Tilles Park was the scene Sunday afternoon of a "free thing" organized by a group of young people, mostly musicians, in the Fort Smith area.

The youths said they had heard countless complaints that there was nothing to do in Fort Smith. Rather than complain, they set up Sunday's happening. About 2,000 youths attended a free concert which featured numerous rock 'n' roll bands from the area and free refreshments.

There were no incidents and officials reported that the park grounds were cleaner than before the happening.

Children's Day At Knob Noster Set Saturday

KNOB NOSTER — Saturday has been set as the date for the third annual Children's Day in Knob Noster, sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce.

The day is being planned as a fun day for the children, and games, booths, pony cart rides and other rides and events have been scheduled.

Main attraction of the day will be Gizzo the Clown. He will visit the children in stores and at the main area, and entertain them with his yo yo, unicycle, old dead chicken and other funny antics. He will also have free balloons for the children.

All events will be held in the one-block area on East Bridge Street between State and North Adams. The area will be closed to traffic between 10 a.m. and 4:30 p.m.

Other organizations have been invited to set up booths and these will include things of interest for children as well as adults. Booth reservations to date include rummage and bake sale, ice cream social and balloon game. The Chamber of Commerce will sponsor several game booths for the children with special prizes for winners.

Marr's Gift Shop has announced prizes will be awarded in a creative art contest they are sponsoring. Details are available at the Gift Shop.

All children of the area are invited to attend and bring their parents.

Ellington to End Career With Song

NEW YORK (AP) — Musician Duke Ellington says he is going to start and end his singing career with a self-composed song inspired by the forthcoming flight of Apollo 11. It's entitled "Moon Maiden."

Recorded by the 70-year-old bandleader here Monday, the song will be broadcast for the first time at 10 p.m. Sunday, when astronauts Edwin Aldrin and Neil Armstrong are expected to be resting on the lunar surface.

"It's a one-shot thing," Ellington said. "This is the end of my singing career."

An Ellington observation on the Apollo 11 moonshot itself: "I hope they will come back and say it's a very nice place to spend the summer."

Rozelle, Namath Agree To Meet at Jets' Camp

HEMPSTEAD, N.Y. (AP) — The Joe Namath case has taken another strange turn with pro football Commissioner Pete Rozelle agreeing to discuss the situation with veteran members of the world champion New York Jets.

The big question today was which member of the Big Two involved in pro football's biggest controversy would reach the site of the Jets' camp here — Rozelle or Namath, the shaggy-haired quarterback who may or may not already be en route here.

Namath received permission Sunday from Coach Weeb Ewbank to report late and said he would "get back" to him either Tuesday night or Wednesday. Whether that meant Namath would contact Ewbank in person or by phone remained a question.

Rozelle, meanwhile, confirmed late Monday night that he had agreed earlier in the day to a command performance at the Jets' camp presumably to present his side of the issues involved in the Namath dispute. No date has as yet been set, although indications are that it will not be held until late in the week.

The Namath case, of course, revolves around the quarterback's restaurant, reportedly frequented by gamblers. Rozelle ordered Namath to sell his interests in the East Side night spot or face suspension but Namath refused and announced his retirement five weeks ago. It has been speculated that Namath eventually will appear at camp but what his intentions are remain unknown. Should he appear and either renounce his retirement or put on a uniform for a workout, he likely would be suspended by Rozelle.

First word of the meeting with Rozelle came from defensive back Johnny Sample, team co-captain along with Namath, after he emerged from an 8 p.m. meeting with veteran team members held in the Jets dressing room on the Hofstra University campus.

"Weeb talked to the commissioner, and he told Weeb he was going to come out here to talk to the team," said Sample, adding: "We don't want him (Rozelle) to send no secretary or no FBI man. We want him."

Sample then went back to the dormitories where the players are housed and phoned Namath, presumably to fill him in on developments. Rozelle, from his apartment in New York, confirmed that he had agreed to talk to a committee of players.

Nine Hurlers are Picked

CINCINNATI (AP) — St. Louis Cardinal Manager Red Schoendienst will have plenty of pitchers when he tries for another National League victory in the annual major league All-Star Game on July 22—he named nine today to the squad.

The American League team will go with eight hurlers. Schoendienst named six right-handers. They, and their records going into Monday night's games, will be: Larry Dierker, Houston, 12-6; Bob Gibson, St. Louis, 11-7; Juan Marichal, San Francisco, 11-3; Phil Niekro, Atlanta, 14-7; Tom Seaver, New York, 14-3; and Bill Singer, Los Angeles, 12-7.

The three left-handers selected are Steve Carlton, St. Louis 11-5; Grant Jackson, Philadelphia, 9-8; and Jerry Koosman, New York, 7-5.

The nine hurlers have a combined won-and-lost record of 101-51.

Only Niekro, Dierker, Singer and Jackson are newcomers to an All-Star squad.

The senior member, of course, is Marichal, who was picked for the eighth time. He has pitched 16 innings in seven such games, allowed seven hits and one earned-run for a 0.56 ERA.

He was the winning pitcher in 1962 in the All-Star game played in Washington—also the scene of this year's contest. Last year he paced the league in victories with a 26-9 mark and also led in complete games with 30.

Gibson is next in All-Star seniority. This was the sixth time for him to be selected. In three pitching performances he has allowed only one earned run in six innings.

Seaver has been named to the squad every year since making good with the Mets three seasons ago. He pitched the 15th and final inning in the 1967 game when the Nationals won 2-1 in the longest game in All-Star history.

Carlton and Koosman are two-timers on the squad and both appeared briefly in the 1968 game. Carlton pitched one inning and Koosman a third of an inning as the Nationals won at Houston 1-0.

The nine pitchers join eight starters named by a vote of players. Schoendienst later will select other plays to round out a 28-man squad.

Doctor Pepper Gets Win Over Smithton

The Dr. Pepper softball team took both ends of a doubleheader from the Smithton Bank team Monday night at Housel Park.

In the first contest, Jim Werneke pitched Dr. Pepper to a 4-1 win with Dave Grupe behind the plate. Ronnie Landreth and Dave Miesner formed the battery for Smithton.

In the second game the Dr. Pepper team held on to post an 8-6 victory.

Paul Pedigree and Dave Grupe were the battery for the locals, while Duane Brawdsward and Mick Selken went the distance for Smithton. Smithton Banks next game will be Friday night at Smithton when they will take on the Warrensburg Mets in another doubleheader.

Top Heavyweight is Goal As Ellis Returns to Mat

Cowboy Ellis

Tor Kamata

Cowboy Bob Ellis returns to the Convention Hall wrestling ring tonight, intent upon re-establishing himself as one of the top heavyweights in the Midlands.

The towering, talented Texan from San Angelo, who started his rise to wrestling success in the Midlands, will collide in the feature of a four-event card with Tor Kamata, dandy but durable Japanese veteran who has a reputation as a spoiler.

Their best of three-falls pairing will top a program that also will mark the debut of Danny Little Bear, the return of Thor Hagen and provide a free-swinging grudge battle. Action gets under way at 8:30.

Ellis, 250 pounds, is a speedster who has parlayed his skills into a winning combination. His patented rodeo headlock is a device often copied by other heavyweights, but never used with the success the handsome Texan has enjoyed.

Joined for the grudge test are the Viking and Bobby Paul. They're booked over one fall to a finish. The event grew out of their jolting pairing last Tuesday which resulted in no decision being rendered.

Hagen will step up to a severe test when he collides with rugged Stan Polaski, who has carved an impressive niche in area ranks as the "Mad Russian."

Danny Little Bear, a stylish, full-blooded Indian, will display his talents in the opener. He is scheduled to meet John Fogarty in his initial Central States start.

Commissioner George Mikan Quits His Post

George Mikan

NEW YORK (AP) — George Mikan has stepped down as commissioner of the American Basketball Association.

He announced his decision Monday as the ABA opened a two-day meeting in New York, where it is setting up its new headquarters. Mikan gave personal and business reasons for his decision.

"My home is in Minneapolis," Mikan explained. "My family is there, and I have other business interests there that demand my presence. Rather than attempt to serve the league as a commuting commissioner, I have decided to step down."

ABA headquarters are being shifted from Minneapolis to New York.

James C. Gardner of Rocky Mount, N.C., ABA president, announced that Assistant Commissioner Thurlio E. McCrady will head the New York headquarters under a new title, that of executive director. Also moving to New York is Lee L. Meade, public relations director.

POLLY'S POINTERS

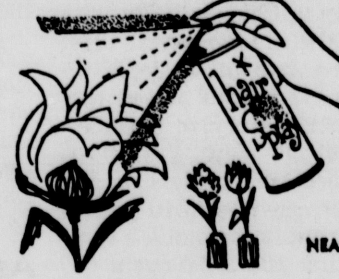

Saved Shower-Gift Bows To Decorate Their Tree

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY—My Pointer is for those girls who will be getting married this summer or fall and be having a first Christmas with a new husband. I saved all the white bows from my shower and wedding gifts and used them to decorate our first tree. Thin, pliable wire was twisted through the center of each bow, then twisted around a tree branch. We added tiny twinkle lights which reflected colors off the white bows and tinsel icicles.—VICTORIA

DEAR POLLY—When cleaning house today I noticed my smart big paper flowers were droopy and out of shape. I sprayed them with hair spray until nice and moist, set them in separate jars to dry, reshaped and straightened the drooping petals and now they are crisp, perky and shapely.—MRS. H. H.

DEAR POLLY—Put a strong rubber band lengthwise around your paint can when painting so the band will make a bridge across the top. Use this band for wiping excess paint off the brush as you work. The sides and top of the can will stay cleaner. When painting a ceiling, take half an old rubber ball and cut a hole in the bottom. Put the handle of the brush through this hole and the paint will run into the rubber cup rather than down the handle.—MARYBELLE

Polly's Problem

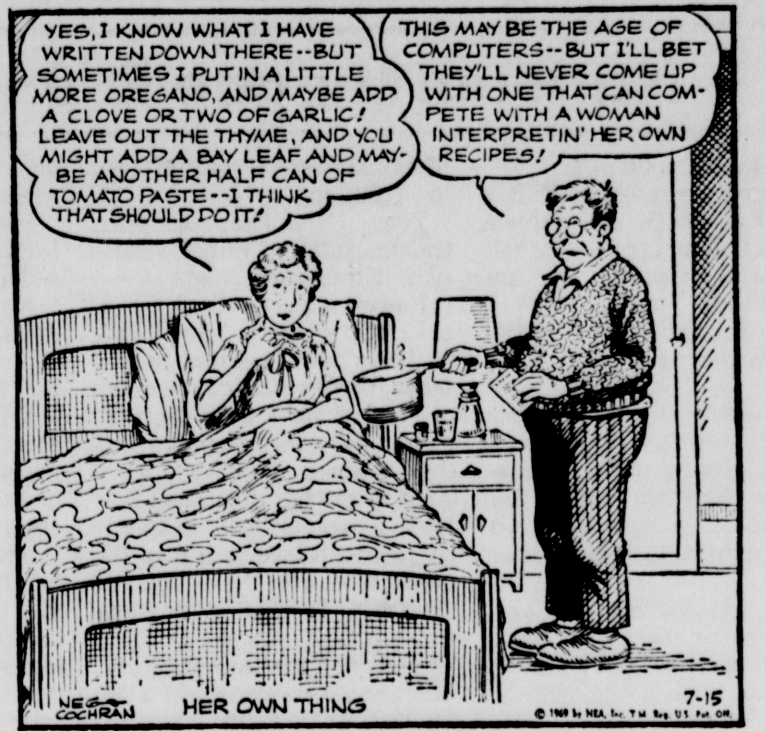

DEAR POLLY—I want to take the wallpaper off my living room walls before repapering. There are already three thicknesses on these plaster walls. Please tell me the best way to remove the old paper.—ROSELLA

National League Roundup

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

Big Bob Veale has thrown Pittsburgh's first pitch in 20 ball games this year...and the last pitch in one.

Pirates catcher Jerry May probably wishes he had it so good.

The Montreal Expos drove Veale from the mound during a two-run eighth inning breakthrough Monday night and trimmed the fading Pirates 2-0 behind right-hander Bill Stoneman.

Veale, 4-11, has failed to finish 19 consecutive starts since April 9, when he went the distance against St. Louis in the Pirates' second game of the season.

May, who caught Veale's first pitch against the Expos, caught nothing but trouble thereafter. He was forced out of the game with a severely bruised thigh in a third inning mishap, then shaken up again when the ambulance transporting him to a Montreal hospital was involved in a collision.

Tony Bartirome, the club trainer, suffered minor lacerations in the road accident.

Pirates Manager Larry Shepard, meanwhile, remained in a St. Louis hospital, where he was taken Sunday after complaining of chest pains during the first game of a doubleheader against the Cardinals.

In Thursday's only other National League action, the Chicago Cubs increased their East Division lead over New York to 5½ games by nipping the Mets 1-0 and the Los Angeles Dodgers moved one game ahead of idle Atlanta in the West with a 4-1 victory over Houston.

Veale dueled Stoneman to a standoff until the Expos struck in the eighth. Bob Bailey's infield hit and singles by Coco Laboy and Jose Herrera produced one run and a walk to Adolfo Phillips finished Veale. Ron Brand then delivered an insurance run with a single off reliever Bob Moose.

Stoneman scattered eight hits for his fifth victory against 12 setbacks.

May, chasing Roberto Clemente's wide throw in the third, slipped on the gravel in front of the Montreal dugout and fell heavily, bruising his left thigh. After surviving the ambulance mishap, he was held overnight in St. Elizabeth's hospital for observation.

Bill Hands, given last out relief help by Phil Regan, beat Met ace Tom Seaver in a brilliant duel at Chicago. Billy Williams driving in the game's only run with a sixth inning single.

Hands, 11-7, who posted the Cubs' lone victory in a three-game set at New York last week, checked the Mets on six hits before giving way to Regan with two out in the ninth, a runner on first and a 2-0 count on pinch hitter Donn Clendenon. The Cub bullpen ace ran the count to 3-2 before Clendenon lined to second baseman Glenn Beckert, who made a leaping catch.

Seaver, 14-4, who hurled a one-hitter against the Cubs at New York and had won eight straight decisions, matched Hands until the sixth, when Don Kessinger beat out a bunt, took second on Beckert's hit-and-run ground out and zipped across on Williams' hit to left center.

Wes Parker broke a 1-1 tie at Houston with a fourth inning homer and doubled in the ninth to launch a two-run wrapup burst. He also drove in the Dodgers' first run with a sacrifice fly.

Don Sutton picked up his 12th victory against nine losses with help from Jim Brewer, who came out of the bullpen with the bases loaded in the seventh and fanned Jim Wynn and Hector Torres to end the threat.

Soviets Are Silent On Luna 15 Flight

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union maintained silence today on the unmanned spaceship Luna 15 that is expected to reach the moon about the time the U.S. Apollo mission blasts off Wednesday.

Newspapers publishing for the first time since the launching Sunday published the original communiqué but added nothing Pravda, the only Moscow newspaper published on Monday, did not mention the moon probe today.

The announcement Sunday said Luna 15 would conduct "further scientific exploration of the moon and the space near the moon."

There is considerable speculation that it will try to scoop up samples of the moon's surface and return them to earth, getting the jump on the Apollo 11 astronauts.

Astronaut Asks To See Moon Walk

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — Astronaut Michael Collins has scored a point for television reruns.

In response to a question at a news conference here Monday night, Collins said he had only one complaint about remaining in the Apollo 11 command module while his fellow astronauts, Neil Armstrong and Edwin Aldrin Jr., descend to the moon surface in the lunar module.

"I'd like to point out to those of you in the television business," Collins said, "that I have no TV set on board and therefore I'm going to be one of the few Americans who is not going to be able to see the EVA (extra-vehicular activity, or moon walk).

"So, I'd like you to save the tapes for me, please. I'd like to look at them after the flight."

American League Roundup

By HAL BOCK

Associated Press Sports Writer

It took awhile to accomplish, but then most good things do. So the Minnesota Twins didn't mind working a little overtime Monday night to keep their winning streak intact.

The Twins seemed headed for an end to their five-game streak until Bob Allison tagged his second home run of the night to the Chicago 2-2 in the ninth. The White Sox pushed across a run in the 12th and again Minnesota was in jeopardy but Cesar Tovar's two-out double tied it again.

By this time Chicago was beginning to get the message and the Sox went quietly in the 14th on consecutive singles by Tony Oliva, Allison and Leo Cardenas.

The 4-3 victory added one-half game to Minnesota's American League West Division lead over idle Oakland. The Twins now hold a five-game lead.

In other American League action Monday, Washington shut out Detroit 3-0 and California blanked Kansas City 2-0. The other teams were not scheduled.

Allison, who had four hits for the night, blasted his 250th career homer in the second inning. But Chicago tied it in the fourth on singles by Gail Hopkins, Pete Ward and Ed Herrmann and then took the lead in the eighth on Hopkins' RBI double.

Allison tied it again in the ninth. Then Bobby Knoop's run-scoring single sent Chicago back in front in the 12th and when the first two Twins went out in the bottom half, things did not look promising for Billy Martin's club.

But pinch hitter Rod Carew beat out a bunt and then circled the bases on Tovar's two-bagger. In the 14th, the Twins wasted no time, stringing consecutive hits by Oliva, Allison and Cardenas to end it.

Both Joe Coleman of the Senators and George Brunet of the Angels hurled a second consecutive shutout.

Coleman allowed Detroit just five singles, struck out nine and drove in a pair of runs with a double and a bases-loaded walk. Bases on balls kept Detroit's Joe Sparta in constant trouble. Brunet permitted Kansas City just two hits and got all the runs he needed on Jay Johnstone's two-run homer in the sixth inning. Until Johnstone connected, Brunet and the Royals' Roger Nelson were locked in a scoreless pitching duel.
